

Insurance Policies – Related Answers

Q1. What does the basic homeowner's insurance policy cover?

A1. A standard homeowner's policy typically covers the structure of the home, personal belongings, liability protection, and additional living expenses if the home becomes uninhabitable due to a covered event.

Q2. How is a car insurance deductible determined?

A2. The deductible is chosen by the policyholder and represents the amount they agree to pay out-of-pocket on a claim before the insurer covers the rest; higher deductibles usually reduce the premium.

Q3. Does travel insurance include emergency medical evacuation?

A3. Many travel insurance plans include emergency medical evacuation, but coverage varies by policy, so travelers should verify the limits and conditions.

Q4. What is the difference between term life and whole life insurance?

A4. Term life insurance provides coverage for a specified period, while whole life insurance offers lifelong coverage and includes a cash-value component.

Q5. Are personal belongings covered in rental insurance policies?

A5. Yes, renters insurance typically covers personal belongings against risks like fire, theft, and certain types of water damage.

Q6. Does pet insurance cover routine vaccinations?

A6. Routine care, including vaccinations, is generally not included in standard pet insurance but may be covered by optional wellness add-on plans.

Q7. How can I file a claim for storm damage?

A7. Policyholders should document the damage with photos, contact their insurer as soon as possible, complete claim forms, and allow an adjuster to inspect the property.

Q8. What factors increase the premium for motorcycle insurance?

A8. Factors include riding experience, type and engine size of the motorcycle, driving record, location, and chosen coverage limits.

Q9. Are sports injuries covered under general health insurance?

A9. Yes, most health insurance plans cover medically necessary treatment for sports injuries unless the policy includes a specific exclusion.

Q10. What is the purpose of an insurance rider?

A10. A rider adds extra coverage or modifies the terms of a policy to cover specific items or circumstances not included in the standard policy.

Q11. When does flood insurance become effective after purchase?

A11. Most flood insurance policies have a 30-day waiting period before coverage takes effect, except in certain immediate-need situations like mortgage requirements.

Q12. Does business liability insurance cover cyberattacks?

A12. General liability insurance does not cover cyberattacks; businesses need a dedicated cyber liability policy for that protection.

Q13. How do insurance companies calculate replacement cost value?

A13. Replacement cost value reflects the amount needed to rebuild or replace property using materials of similar kind and quality, without deducting for depreciation.

Q14. What documents are required when renewing a life insurance policy?

A14. Typically, only updated personal information and payment are required; full medical exams are usually not needed unless the plan structure changes.

Q15. Is mold damage typically included in homeowner's coverage?

A15. Mold is usually covered only if it results from a covered peril, such as a burst pipe; mold from neglected maintenance is generally excluded.

Q16. Do insurance policies cover damage caused by termites?

A16. No, termite damage is typically excluded because it is considered preventable through proper maintenance.

Q17. Are natural disasters considered "acts of God" in insurance terms?

A17. Yes, many natural disasters fall under "acts of God," but coverage depends on the policy; for example, earthquakes and floods often require separate policies.

Q18. What is the benefit of bundling home and auto insurance?

A18. Bundling usually provides a multi-policy discount, reduces total premiums, and simplifies account management.

Q19. Does disability insurance replace full income during recovery?

A19. No, disability insurance generally replaces a portion of income—commonly 50–70%—depending on the policy.

Q20. How long do policyholders have to report a car accident to their insurer?

A20. Insurers typically require accidents to be reported "as soon as reasonably possible," which often means within a few days, depending on the policy.